Course Report

Best practice in radiation oncology Train the radiation therapist trainers - Part I

*28 November-2 December 2022
Brussels, Belgium*

My name is Dragana Bjeletic, and I have been a radiation therapist (RTT) for six years at the Oncology Institute of Vojvodina which is situated in the beautiful city of Novi Sad in Serbia.

I have always been driven to learn more and to develop as a young professional, and this course was my first involvement in a project of this kind.

During this course, we had the opportunity to interact with wonderful colleagues from many countries, share experiences, learn about various educational issues, and overall, experience a really pleasant learning environment. Also, we could acquire the knowledge and abilities required to plan, coordinate, deliver, and evaluate educational short courses in our countries.

Learning about different aspects of teaching was very motivating for me, and I felt inspired to contribute to the educational improvement of RTTs in my country.

I was sure that this course would be useful in my career, but I must say that the teachers and the training exceeded my expectations. I hope that, with everything we have learned, my coworkers and I will deliver our first short course successfully, and I look forward to more meet-ups and education!
