Interview with Karolina Kowalska, Committees & Education Project Manager

What is your name, where are you from?

Karolina Kowalska, I come from Poland.

What are your responsibilities at ESTRO and how long have you worked with ESTRO?

I am a committee and education project manager: I manage communication between the RTT committee and ESTRO as well as organising educational courses. I joined ESTRO in mid-November 2019, shortly before the COVID lockdown.

What is your background?

I have a master's degree in Business Communication from Opole University in Poland.

Where did you work before ESTRO?

Before ESTRO, I lived in Japan and worked at Kanazawa University as a student consultant and English teacher and in an international kindergarten as an English teacher.

How did you end up working for ESTRO?

I came back to Europe and was looking for a job in a non-profit organisation; I found an ESTRO advert, and we managed to meet.

What did you know about radiation oncology before starting at ESTRO?

My knowledge about radiation oncology was very limited; however, I was aware of the use of radiation therapy.

What are the exciting new developments and projects that you are looking forward to at ESTRO?

Since I joined ESTRO at the unfortunate time of COVID, I have been waiting for two years to start my live courses, so I am enjoying the possibility of meeting people at live events. I am also looking forward to learning more about the organisation and its projects and seeing how they will shape my professional future.
